

ALL EARS READING™

This season marks a new first for ARF. In partnership with University of California - Davis and Nestle Purina Petcare Company, ARF is taking The All Ears Reading™ program to new heights, establishing what the organization already knows inherently - pets help youth build confidence in reading!

ARF is conducting a research study to assess the impacts of The All Ears Reading™ experience on reading skills, self-esteem, and empathy of elementary-aged youth from diverse backgrounds in low-performing schools.

Working with Martin Smith, Youth Curriculum Specialist and Dr. Richard Timmins, Manager, Program for Veterinary Family Practice at UC Davis, Molly, Lolly and Jesse, three of ARF's Pet Hug Pack dogs, are reading with third grade children from Tremont Elementary School in Dixon, California. While data is gathered, the kids are having great fun with their new furry friends.

"This research will help children find new ways to improve their reading while doing what is natural -- loving their pets." said Elena Bicker, Executive Director of Tony La Russa's Animal Rescue Foundation. ARF, UC Davis and Purina are proud to take the lead in bringing conclusive research to the industry of "pets helping people".

Target, ARF and Purina are also back to work on the second reading kit in The All Ears Reading™ series. The colorful story is a tool for children to read with their animals in any environment.

MOJO'S MOMMY

Dear ARF,

My husband and I dropped in to ARF "just to look" and as soon as I saw MoJo's little face, I was in love. He gazed at me with his piercing brown eyes and an unassuming look as we were peeking at him through the glass. The adoption counselor said that he was a little shy, but as soon as they opened the door he came running straight to me as if he knew I was supposed to be his mommy!

Next we brought Martini our Papillion puppy to meet MoJo, just to make sure they got along. That went so well, we brought him home! It was an adjustment at first, but now MoJo is completely settled and is loving life. We call him our little chi-weenie as the vet guessed he was a Chihuahua dachshund mix. He loves playing with Martini and is very patient with her when she gets pesty, especially during his frequent nap times!

He is such a love, and is the perfect addition to our family it's hard to imagine life without him!

MADDIE'S LEGACY SAVES COUNTLESS LIVES

Visitors to ARF enter through the Maddie's Animal Care Center doors.

Maddie was a Miniature Schnauzer whose unconditional love and devotion inspired her caregivers, Peoplesoft and Workday founder Dave Duffield, and his wife, Cheryl, to start a foundation in her name.

When Maddie passed away in 1997, Dave made a promise to "give back to Maddie and her kind in dollars that which Maddie gave to Cheryl and me in life and love."

LETTER FROM ARF's EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Kayla Bicker

May 6, 1992 - April 9, 2008

I wake up each morning and see the empty bed in the corner and struggle through the morning routine. My beloved Kayla is gone. Once downstairs, Sadie and I are left to determine who will fetch the hurled newspaper from the driveway bushes. Kayla, who faithfully retrieved rain or shine each day, could detect the wayward daily paper effortlessly. I know Sadie and I are in real trouble when rain returns.

Kayla came into my life just months before my marriage and I couldn't wait to start teaching her the ways of the world. I was so excited and within the first week, she quickly mastered the art of retrieval and return. I was such the proud mother confident that Kayla was the smartest dog in the entire world, ignoring the fact as a Golden Retriever she was a natural. We became instant and constant companions, traveling everywhere together, delighting in long walks. To this day, I have never understood her insatiable desire to roll in cow patties during our great adventures in the open space. She would flop over, dancing on her back in the greenest, smelliest was educating me all the time we shared fun walks and a loving friendship. Her instructions on how to lead a happier, more enriching life and lessons for successful relationships were relayed each and every day. She taught me qualities which come so effortlessly to dogs - loyalty, devotion, tenacious optimism, utter love - can be imitated by all of us. Wag more, bark less. She taught me about the value of commitment "in good times and bad, in sickness and in health".

When Kayla was nine, Sadie

She taught me about the value of commitment "in good times and bad, in sickness and in health".

manure with great pleasure. Her tracking device for discovering these delicious piles may be where she honed her newspaper locating skills.

On occasion, I would be forced to leave my baby behind but upon returning home there was always a joyful celebration awaiting, starting at Kayla's tail and wiggling through her entire body. Once safely in the house, Kayla would race about to find her favorite squeaky ball which she would parade around the house, trumpeting "They're back! They're back!" It didn't matter if we had been gone for minutes or a week's vacation Kayla's gleeful reaction was always the same.

I spent many hours teaching her all the basic commands as well as entertaining tricks to show the many children she visited with as a Pet Hug Pack member. But it had been Kayla who joined the family and the opportunity for everyone to embrace patience was created. I remember Kayla must have patiently watched as Sadie would overturn the garbage can. And although Kayla would never engage in such rude behavior, she was never one to miss the banquet spread across the back yard. After all, she was a Golden Retriever!

Even in our final good bye, Kayla's giving of herself remained strong with her sweet, soft brown eyes. Strength and courage were Kayla's final lessons to me. I hope I served her well as a student.

MIKO SPEAKS

By Miko and Erika Iwinski

Woof! Hello!! Let me introduce myself, my name is Miko. I am a 5-1/2 year old Rottweiler mix. I was almost three years old when I met my mom and dad. When I first saw them they seemed so happy to see me and I just had to snuggle up and lean into them for support and comfort.

Once home I met my new brother, a 15-year-old tuxedo cat. My brother and I were soon best buddies, even napping together. Soon I was enrolled in classes at ARF U – it was fun to learn and train Mom how to give me treats!

Since I love people so much, Mom found a great job for me. I took my test to become an AKC Canine Good Citizen and passed. Then we joined ARF's Pet Hug Pack and started going on outings where I got to meet many new friends – both canine and human. I get to put on a special vest that tells people I'm a therapy dog, and then I get to visit sick people and give them plenty of love to help make them feel better.

When I see mom pull out my vest and leash I try to sit very still so she can put them on me, but it's very hard to do and I sometimes just have to dance in a circle to express my excitement at going to work. I remember one visit where I greeted someone lying in bed. She saw me, got out of bed and sat on the floor and pulled me into her lap so that I could be closer to her. She spent a good 10-minutes giving me great rubs and scratches while I leaned in to her and even gave kisses. Needless to say I love my job!

GIRL SCOUTS' GIFT

Girl Scout Troop #32559 of Danville, California wanted to perform a community service project which would truly benefit animals that do not have loving homes. This became a very personal quest for each Scout as they came to realize how helping just one pet can mean so much.

After visiting ARF, the girls decided to do more to help the adorable animals they met during their visit. They also left wanting to open up their homes to foster pets in need and one of the girls has already signed up for ARF's Pre-Teen All-Stars Camp ARF program.

Overall, the girls worked hard to organize a blanket/towel drive and more importantly, took the time and effort to sell jelly beans at school. But the culmination of their efforts came when they stood in the ARF lobby with their three large bags of towels and $500 donation check, looking at all the animals that would benefit from their hard work. The sense of pride each felt can only be gained by giving of yourself to help others.

RIGHT ON, REX!

A happy-go-lucky Golden Retriever/Chow mix was poised to make a big move. Kathy, his alpha human, had been out of work for months, but was going to move with her children into a big place with her fiancé and his children. Lots of packing and chaos didn't allow for normal family routines including the usual time for Rex. But in the new home Rex would have a big yard to play in to express his unbounded enthusiasm for life with his bigger family. Everyone was so excited about the move.

Days before the move, Rex could restrain his excitement no longer and burst out of his enclosure to romp joyfully around the neighborhood. Kathy splinted or covered in a cast, Rex was not doing any romping for some time, if ever.

Many weeks of bandage and splint changes went by before the vets could see how Rex was healing. Each staff member held their breath, not knowing if either one of his legs would work properly. But Rex didn't seem to think there was a thing wrong with either one. He always came to the clinic was headed home when she found Rex and a Good Samaritan who had stopped his car to protect Rex after he had seen him hit by another car. Frantic, Kathy raced Rex to an emergency clinic where he was stabilized and treated until all Kathy's funds were used up. Kathy wondered if Rex would ever get to see his new home as she was short on options to continue to pay for his health care. Fortunately, the emergency clinic referred her to ARF where she found assistance through ARF's Emergency Medical Fund® (EMF).

Rex had been lucky enough to avoid major internal organ injuries but both of his front legs were fractured.

At the ARF clinic, it was determined that Rex had been lucky enough to avoid major internal organ injuries but both of his front legs were fractured. Dr. Heather Coburn, immediately called in an orthopedic team to repair one leg and to give advice on how to monitor and care for the other leg. Hopefully Rex could keep at least one of his front legs. With both legs either smiling and waving his plumed tail with joy. He gave his nurses kisses and wags as they changed his dressings and splints, never complaining.

Finally the day came when the splints came off. Would he be able to resume his normal activity? We may have been doubtful but he was not! Rex went home on all four paws with his big family and everyone was all smiles. Thank you EMF for returning Rex to a full life with the family he loves.

A LOVING HOME FOR LUCAS

Dear ARF,

We wanted to send this simple snapshot in to show you Scorpio (aka Lucas now). He has fit right in with the family. He's very comfortable in his new surroundings as you may be able to tell from this photo.

Our children (four years old and five months old) are getting along very well with Lucas. Lucas spends most evenings on our four year old's bed.

Thanks again,

Chris and Kali

IN MEMORY OF SPECIAL FRIENDS

WALKING PAWS FOR A CAUSE

Hi! My name is Andrew and I am 11 years old. My ARF story goes like this. It was a sunny summer afternoon. I had nothing to do. I decided that since I didn't have a dog, I would walk my neighbor's dog, Scout, around the block. After I started walking Scout some other neighbors noticed me. I told them he wasn't my dog, I was just walking him. They said they'd love for me to come over and walk their dogs, so I did.

I started calling my business DWBK-Dog Walking By Kids. I love how ARF helps animals, so I decided I wanted to donate my earnings to ARF. Between my dog walking business, a couple of donations from neighbors, and a few lemonade stands, I earned over $200 to give to ARF.

COLLABORATIVE EFFORTS

ARF DOGS FIND A NEW CAREER

Dogs for the Deaf, Inc. in Central Point, Oregon, professionally trains rescued shelter dogs for three specific programs - hearing dogs, dogs for seniors, and special needs dogs.

The Hearing Dog program trains dogs to respond to household sounds and alert their guardian to noises such as

Most of the dogs selected from shelters are mixed breed which are small to medium in size. All dogs pass aptitude tests, are friendly, energetic, smart, and spayed/neutered, health checked/vaccinated before entering an intensive six month training program, which also includes obedience training. After placement, the trainer teaches the

The Poodle gods were smiling on Bobby that fateful day when ARF's rescue van arrived at the shelter, scooped up Bobby and brought him back to its Walnut Creek shelter. One month later, Dogs for the Deaf made its first visit to ARF and after careful consideration selected Bobby for their extensive training program.

telephones, smoke alarms, doorbells, etc. The dogs for seniors program trains dogs to make great companions for senior citizens, and the special needs dogs are trained and re-homed to families who have special physical, mental, or emotional needs.

new guardian how to maintain the dog's sound and obedience work.

Back in March 2006, Bobby, a gray and black poodle mix, had been picked up as a stray and was taken to the local animal shelter where he awaited what would be almost certain euthanasia.

Because of this special relationship with ARF, Dogs for the Deaf recently revisited ARF's shelter in search of more prospective dogs for its program. After carefully assessing 12 ARF dogs, the trainers were drawn to Pepper and Mel and selected both as students at Dogs for the Deaf.

Both dogs are currently in full training with Dogs for the Deaf. Pepper and Mel are showing great promise with their training and it's reported they each possess a heart of gold. Dogs for the Deaf feels both Pepper and Mel are destined for future greatness when they share their special talents with a very fortunate person who in turn, will share their lives and hearts with these wonderful rescue dogs.
